"Sharing your garden bounty with Neighbors in Need"

Attn: Community Garden Manager:

The AmpleHarvest.org^(sm) Campaign is a nationwide program, backed by Google and the USDA that helps diminish hunger in your community by enabling Community Garden members (and others) wishing to share their excess garden harvest, find a local food pantry eager to accept it.

Key to the success of the campaign is making as many garden members as possible, aware of their opportunity to donate excess produce to a nearby food pantry.

Please help diminish hunger in your community by posting the other side of this flier where your members can easily see it.

Additional copies of this flier are available for download at www.AmpleHarvest.org/CommunityGarden

One out of six Americans is hungry.

It doesn't have to be this way.

"Sharing your garden bounty with Neighbors in Need"

Community Garden Members vs Hunger In Your Own Community

You may be receiving far more produce from you garden plot than you can possibly use, preserve or give to friends.

One out of six of Americans needs help feeding their family yet can't get healthy fresh produce from a neighborhood food pantry.

It doesn't have to be that way!

The AmpleHarvest.org Campaign helps you and your neighbors diminish hunger in your own community by enabling you to share your harvest bounty with a neighborhood food pantry. Fight hunger & help the environment simultaneously.

Find a neighborhood food pantry at:

Times are tough. You can help your neighbors in need by reaching into your plot instead of your pocket.
