Your food pantries are already challenged by increased hunger in their community yet rarely if ever have fresh produce for their clients

Over 40 million gardeners across America grow fruit, vegetables, herbs and nuts - often more than they can use, preserve or give away.

It does not have to be that way

The AmpleHarvest.org Campaign, created by CNN Hero Gary Oppenheimer and backed by Google Inc, the US Department of Agriculture, many faith and service organizations as well as numerous food banks, enables local growers to share their excess produce with neighborhood food pantries.

This free campaign has already registered more than 2,800 pantries across all 50 states with more signing up daily.

The AmpleHarvest.org Campaign works with food banks nationwide and they need your help to reach more of the pantries you work with.

Please stop by the AmpleHarvest.org exhibit to chat with Gary, hear more about the campaign and learn how your food bank can help.

Within one hour of registering Community Resource Center on the AmpleHarvest.org website I received a call from a local family of four with 10 orange trees.

Community Resource Center Food Pantry, CA

AmpleHarvest.org has been a huge benefit to our partner agencies and has really helped getting fresh fruits to those in need.

Feeding America of San Diego, CA

We have been trying to find a good way to communicate to gardeners which food shelves they can donate to. I think ampleharvest.org is the missing link we have been looking for.

Second Harvest Heartland, MN

.. [our food bank] has sent your website and produce offer out to us....I do have to say "Hot Diggity!!"
