

Local Gardeners Across America Can Help End Hunger

AmpleHarvest.org is a nationwide program, backed by Google and the USDA that helps to diminish hunger in your community. It enables backyard gardeners wishing to share their excess garden bounty to find a local food pantry.

Key to the success of the program is educating as many gardeners as possible about their opportunity to donate excess garden produce to a nearby food pantry.

Please help diminish hunger in your community by asking your local garden shop, library, supermarket, or house of worship to post the other side of this flyer somewhere where gardeners can easily see it.

Encourage your friends and family across America to share the information too. Every gardener who learns about AmpleHarvest.org brings us one step closer to diminishing hunger in America. ## Home Gardeners vs Hunger in the Community

You may be one of 42 million Americans who grow more food in their home gardens than they can possibly use, preserve or give to friends.

One out of six of Americans needs help feeding their family yet can't get healthy fresh produce from a neighborhood food pantry.

It doesn't have to be that way!

AmpleHarvest.org enables you to diminish hunger in your own community by helping you share your excess garden bounty with a neighborhood food pantry.

Times are tough. You can help your neighbors in need by reaching into your backyard instead of your back pocket.
