AMPLEHARVEST.ORG FOUNDER / EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR GARY OPPENHEIMER

NAMED 2013 PURPOSE PRIZE FELLOW

The Purpose Prize honors Americans 60 and older solving the world's toughest social problems

For Immediate Release

Newfoundland NJ – (November 26 2013) – Encore.org has announced that Gary Oppenheimer of Newfoundland NJ is a 2013 Purpose Prize fellow. The Purpose Prize is the nation's only large-scale investment in social entrepreneurs and other creative problem solvers in the second half of life.

“Purpose Prize fellows are using their passion and experience to help solve some of society's toughest problems,” said Marc Freedman, founder and CEO of Encore.org and author of The Big Shift. “They represent a growing wave of people in their 60s and beyond who are using their know-how to change the world, while shifting perceptions of what is possible in this stage of life.”

The Purpose Prize program is funded by the John Templeton Foundation, The Atlantic Philanthropies, and Symetra. The Prize is awarded by Encore.org, a nonprofit that promotes encore careers – work that is both personally meaningful and serves the greater good.

Oppenheimer created AmpleHarvest.org, an online resource to connect local gardeners with food pantries so excess fresh produce gets to hungry people rather than thrown away. On a larger scale, he has demonstrated that some problems can be handled “in the cloud” at a much lower cost and without having to build any new infrastructure or logistics by simply connecting the dots between the resources and the need already existing side by side within the community.

“I am delighted to have been named a 2013 Purpose Prize fellow, but the greater recognition should ultimately go to the millions of home growers nationwide who are using AmpleHarvest.org to help eliminate food waste, hunger and malnutrition in their own community” noted Oppenheimer. “As somebody who hates waste and missed opportunities, this model seemed obvious to me as a way of helping to reduce childhood obesity, Type II diabetes and a host of other problems borne of the food 1 in 6 America’s rely on. Ultimately, I fully expect that this food recovery model will be as ubiquitous as recycling has become today and will permanently change the face of hunger and nutrition in America.”

A panel of 21 judges – leaders in business, politics, journalism and the nonprofit sector – chose the seven winners from a pool of more than 1,000 nominees. This year’s 43 fellows are finalists for The Prize. An awards ceremony will be held in December in San Francisco.
