

AmpleHarvest.org Announces New Board President

AmpleHarvest.org announces the appointment of John Powers, Deloitte Chief Corporate Development Officer, as President of AmpleHarvest.org Board of Directors.

Newfoundland, NJ, April 17, 2019 --(PR.com)-- Today, AmpleHarvest.org, the nation's only virtual solution to food waste and hunger, has announced the appointment of John Powers, Chief Corporate Development Officer at Deloitte, as their new Board President.

"We are thrilled that John's taking the reins to help us towards further reducing hunger and food waste in America," said AmpleHarvest.org Executive Director, Gary Oppenheimer. "As a gardener himself, he sees the opportunity, presented by the nation's 42 million gardeners, to donate their excess harvest to nearly 8,500 AmpleHarvest.org registered food pantries. The solution impacts hunger, food waste and climate change on a vast scale."

"AmpleHarvest.org is a small organization so we count on an active and engaged working board to help us accomplish our mission nationwide," added Oppenheimer. "We've been fortunate to have past board presidents lead the organization towards ever increasing impact and scale and are confident that John will build on that legacy."

About John Powers:

John Powers is the Chief Corporate Development Officer for Deloitte. He joined Deloitte in 1994, and has held various positions including Sector Leader for our Defense practice and Offering Leader for our M&A practice. John has been a Visiting Executive Lecturer at the Darden School of Business on the topic of merger integration. John graduated with a B.A. from Brown University and received an MBA from the Kellogg Graduate School of Management. He's also a Certified Master Gardener with the Rutgers Morris County Cooperative Extension.
